Month of the Military Child 2018

April is designated as the Month of the Military Child; a time to honor the sacrifices made by military families worldwide, with an emphasis on the experience of the dependent children of military members serving at home and overseas.

Month of the Military Child 2018

A 2015 military demographics report listed on Defense.gov counted nearly two million "total-force dependent children" including more than 900 thousand Army dependents, 400 thousand Air Force dependents, nearly 300 thousand Navy and approximately 118 thousand Marine dependents.

Month of the Military Child 2018

The month of April is an important one for children who have one or both parents serving in uniform; since 1986 there have been an increasing number of awareness campaigns aimed at recognizing the needs of military children in all areas from coping with the deployment of parents to war zones to education of military dependents at on-base Department of Defense Dependent School System (DoDDS) campuses around the globe.

April a month unlike any other

Commissaries, Exchanges spotlight Month of the Military Child

To help celebrate April as the Month of the Military Child, commissaries are joining exchanges and other onpost resale outlets in offering a variety of giveaways and savings for the entire family.

"Children in military households face unique challenges because of the demands of military life," said Tracie Russ, DeCA's sales director. "So we want to acknowledge them and do all we can to provide their families with great values for their commissary benefit."

For Month of the Military Child, commissaries will promote the importance of healthier lifestyles using the "5-2-1-0" message, which is: Eat five fruits and vegetables every day; limit recreational screen time to two hours or less daily; get one or more hours of physical activity every day, and avoid drinks with sugar

Commissaries worldwide are also planning "Thank You for Your Service Sidewalk Sales" during April 16 through May 31, and many will partner with their local Exchange.

Find out more about other sales and event on our website at www.commissaries.com.

On-post resale outlets maximizing partnership opportunities

More commissary/exchange joint sales coming

See what's on sale before you shop . . . Privilege confirmation required to see sale prices.

Service members and their families will see more joint sales promotions for commissaries and exchanges that highlight the savings and value of shopping on military installations.

Starting in April, with promotions linked to the Month of the Military Child, on-post resale outlets will maximize partnership opportunities outlined during a recent marketing conference hosted by the Defense Commissary Agency.

"There's a huge symbiotic relationship with the exchange and the commissary," said retired Rear Adm. Robert J. Bianchi, DeCA's interim director and CEO.

He said the goal is to let service members know the value of shopping or the installation. Visitor our website to read the story.

Staying informed about food-safety-related recalls can be a full-time job.
